

What anxieties or concerns do you have about small group teaching?

How to motivate the group

Being not well prepared

Demonstrating in a manner that everyone understands. Keeping the level of motivation high. Meeting the subject requirement.

Not enough student interaction.

Handling questions from students as english is not my first language

language, timming discussion led too far from the topic

How to interpret silence: too easy/boring or too hard how to prioritize if time is scarce: rush through all questions or doing ineter two right?

I feel a bit worried about the language wether i will be able to cover the whole thing in english. The second worry for me is the time management for the first time on every seminar.

What anxieties or concerns do you have about small group teaching?

How to motivate students to speak up

What skills do you feel are important for fulfilling the role of GTA?

don't make fun of the students

be knowledgeable about the topic

be able to communicate clearly be available and empathetic to students

Have solid grip on the subject. Time management. Ability to maintain order, being assertive but not rude and allow space to student to express their concerns. Predictable in a sense that rules will be implemented. Reasonably Loud and clear.
